

Megan Peck

Pharmacist

I became a pharmacist in order to help people. Running for election to the College's Board of Directors is an extension of that pledge. I understand the importance of maintaining safe, accessible, ethical, and quality care for all patients. We as pharmacists must ensure that all patients have equal access to our healthcare system and are treated without discrimination and with respect.

I want to help the College, through its Board of Directors, work toward improving all patients' safety and access to healthcare. As we learned from COVID-19, pharmacy technicians and pharmacists are critical frontline workers, and their wellbeing is fundamental to the proper functioning of the healthcare system.

I want to work with the Board of Directors to examine ways we can ensure and protect the wellbeing of all pharmacy professionals given our expanded scope of practice and the lessons we have learned from COVID-19.

As a former president, treasurer and board member of a labour association I have broad experience with strategic direction, financial oversight, and good governance. I have worked with diverse populations, marginalized groups, and individuals with disabilities.

As a lawyer I have extensive experience with legislation, regulations, policies and standards of practice. I would like the opportunity to give back to my first profession, the profession of pharmacy. I believe that I can do that by applying and exercising my specialized knowledge and skillsets in serving as a member of the College's Board of Directors.

May I count on your vote?

Sincerely,

Megan E. Peck
